

INVITATION

For students interested to participate as demonstrators during the anatomical dissection course during the summer semester 2024/25

Students of General Medicine (Course G) / Dentistry (Course F), years 2 and up / years 4 and up, who wish to deepen their knowledge of Anatomy & would like to pass it to their junior colleagues, are invited to apply.

Please pre-register starting Monday, February 10, until Tuesday, March 4, 2025 using the web form, the link to which could be found below the particular course.

Please fill up the required information, and then all you need to do is to come to the Meeting of potential demonstrators, which will be held on Wednesday, March 6, 2025

in the Great Auditorium of the Institute of Anatomy at 3:00 p.m.

The registration is preliminary, and final assignment of the students will be performed after the meeting, during which we will provide the information about the program and organization of the dissection courses. Again, we have about 32 slots for the English-taught courses. We are in need of both experienced demonstrators (who participated at 2+ dissection courses already) as well as fresh blood (one course or none yet). If the number of applicants exceeds our capacity, the decisive criterion will be the score on the slide test (identification of anatomical structures in a PowerPoint presentation). The list of students selected (who also complete successfully the course) will be passed on to the Student Affairs for awarding the credits for the eligible subject and a stipend.
